

ERRATUM

Erratum to “Vessel Strikes to Large Whales Before and After the 2008 Ship Strike Rule”

Julie M. van der Hoop¹, Angelia S. M. Vanderlaan², Timothy V. N. Cole³, Allison G. Henry³, Lanni Hall⁴, Blair Mase-Guthrie⁵, Tonya Wimmer⁶, & Michael J. Moore¹

¹ Biology Department, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, Woods Hole, MA 02543, USA

² Large Pelagics Research Center, University of Massachusetts Amherst, Gloucester, MA 01931, USA

³ NOAA National Marine Fisheries Service, NEFSC, Woods Hole, MA 02543, USA

⁴ NOAA Fisheries Greater Atlantic Regional Fisheries Office, Gloucester, MA 01930, USA

⁵ NOAA Fisheries Southeast Regional Office, Miami, FL 33701, USA

⁶ Maritime Marine Animal Response Network, Marine Animal Response Society, Nova Scotia Museum, Halifax, Nova Scotia B3H 4J1, Canada

doi: 10.1111/conl.12273

The article to which this erratum refers was published in Conservation Letters 8: 24–32 (2015) (10.1111/conl.12105).

It has come to our attention that there is an error in Figure 5 in the temporal extent of the Seasonal Management Areas (SMAs) in the Great South Channel/Off Race Point/Cape Cod Bay region (van der Hoop et al. 2014). Although the active periods for the Great South Channel SMA partly coincide with Cape Cod Bay and Off Race Point SMAs regulations, the original Figure 5 in print shows all three areas “managed” until July 31. This applies only to the Great South Channel. Regulations end May 15 for Cape Cod Bay and April 30 for Off Race Point. A revised figure is below.

